During this period, your performance and conduct will be evaluated to figure out your suitability for confirmation in the role. The probation period may be extended at the discretion of the management based on performance.

2.Confirmation of Employment:

3.Service Commitment:

Upon successful completion of the probation period and confirmation of your employment, you will have to serve a minimum of two (2) years with the organization. This commitment is essential due to the investment in your training, onboarding, and development.

5. Attendance and Punctuality Policy:

Employees are expected to maintain regular attendance and punctuality. They should report to work on time and notify their supervisor or HR representative as soon as possible if they are unable to attend work due to illness, personal emergency, or other reasons. Excessive absenteeism, tardiness, or leaving work early without prior approval may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

6. Leave Policy

Employees are entitled to one casual leave per month, which can be used for personal reasons, illness, or other approved purposes, provided prior authorization is obtained from their supervisor or HR representative. All leave requests must be approved in advance; unapproved leave will be considered unauthorized and may result in disciplinary action.

7. Notice Period

If you decide to resign during your probation period, a 60-day notice period is needed. If you do not provide full notice period, the company will deduct the equivalent to two (2) months of your gross salary, or you will have to pay the same amount to the company.

8.Early Resignation Policy

You are expected to always keep a high standard of professionalism and ethical behavior. This includes treating colleagues, customers, and clients with respect, following company policies and procedures, and avoiding conflicts of interest. You must also follow all policies and rules outlined in "The Sexual Harassment of Women at Workplace (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) Act, 2013."

10.Confidentiality

You must keep strict confidentiality about the company's business transactions during your employment and after you leave the company. Disclosure of any confidential information to unauthorized parties will be considered a serious breach of trust and may result in disciplinary action, including termination of employment.

11.Performance Review

Performance meetings will be conducted monthly to evaluate your progress toward your goals. Salary increments will be figured out based on these meetings and implemented annually.

12.Termination

Employment with the company is at-will and may be stopped by either party at any time. Reasons for termination may include deficient performance, violation of company policies, or other circumstances as figured out by the company. Upon termination, you must return all company property, including keys, access cards, equipment, and documents.

Your offer is conditional upon a successful background verification, which may be conducted at any time during your employment. Any negative findings will be considered a breach of trust and may result in immediate termination. You are not allowed to engage in any other employment or consulting assignments, either full-time or part-time, that would form dual employment. Violating this rule will result in immediate termination.
